CALL FOR PAPERS
THE 2nd INTERNATIONAL AKDENİZ ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND LITERATURE UNDERGRADUATE/ GRADUATE STUDENT CONFERENCE
"BORDERS & BOUNDARIES"

April 29-30, 2027

The Department of English Language and Literature is pleased to invite submissions for the 2nd International Akdeniz English Language and Literature Undergraduate/Graduate Student Conference, under the theme "Borders & Boundaries." The concepts of borders and boundaries have long been central to discussions of identity, difference, and belonging. Across literary, linguistic, historical, and cultural contexts, the distinction between the self and the other shapes how individuals and communities perceive, construct, and represent borders and boundaries in relation to their various identities. This conference invites students to explore how borders and boundaries influence the representation of identities across texts, cultures, and historical periods. We welcome submissions in English from undergraduate and graduate students from all departments and disciplines.

Possible topics include, but are not limited to:

- The self and the other in literature
- Borders/Boundaries and identities
- Gender, sexuality, and othering
- Race, ethnicity, and cultural differences
- Film, media, and popular culture
- Technology and non-human others
